

of these alternatives to conventional higher education are growing to the Council for Adult and Experiential Learning, or CAEL. This story is part of a series about workforce development and higher education. based on "real-world competencies" obtained from work experience and elsewhere.